

ST EGWIN'S C.E.
MIDDLE SCHOOL

Morning update Thursday 4th June 2020

We're open to the other half of Y6. Again, that happened very easily. Such a nice smooth, if chilly, start to the day. A few nervous faces. I had to promise to be brave and do a headstand in my live streamed video assembly this morning to cajole a pupil in. We were both brave – although it has left me with a headache!

Although it's still a bit fresh outside, we have acres and acres to spread out in. Our staff have taken to the new ways of working with their usual gusto. The children have settled very quickly. Lots of smiles. As a parent myself, I can reassure you that if you could see the faces of the children, as I can, you would be reassured that you made the right decision to send them back.

I have started streaming video assemblies. Feeling very with it and down with the kids. I will have to try hard to think of things to entertain the children with. Not sure I can top the handstand.

I've been around the school and popped my head into the classrooms. The children look happy. Some excellent tans on show. They've been sharing their lockdown boredom. I have to say that some of you parents and carers must have been doing an excellent job. Your children are impressed with your teaching abilities.

We will see how the activities we are delivering today and tomorrow go. You'll know from their reactions when they get home.
